

Home Owners Association Approval

Sublette County, Wyoming

A number of subdivisions and large tract developments require that their property owners' association (home owners association) review and approve building plans before Sublette County can issue a Zoning and Development Permit (building permit). Subdivision covenants can be found at the County Clerk's office and on line at First American Title, <http://www.firstam.com/title/wy/sublette/forms/maps-and-restricted-covenants.html> If the homeowners association of your subdivision requires review and approval, you will be required to return this completed form with your building permit application.

On this date _____ 20____, I/we have reviewed the information submitted by _____ to build on Lot/Tract _____,

Unit_____, of the _____ Subdivision or Large Tract Development.

The review committee of _____ Subdivision or Large Tract Development Property Owners Association approves of this building plan and recommends that the required permits be issued by the Sublette County Planning & Zoning Department.
